NDER the branches of the cotton-woods and willows on a bank of Little Cottonwood creek, forming a copse sheltered from the road, a mile east of Murray, William X. Ryan, an illinerant optician, was found dead yesterday afternoon. A woman is believed to have had a hand in his murder.

The body was discovered in a stage of decomposition, indicating that death had ensued about forty-eight hours before. The hands were ted behind with a whiplash. The arms were bound down by a strap. The ankies were secured by a line from the harness. The right temple was crushed in, telling of a severe blow on the bead. Discoloration about the threat indicated stranzulation.

A Tew feet away, tied to a wheel of the wirgon, a white buildog watched, helpless, over the body of his master, which had been covered with quilts. Two horses were securely tethered not far distant, where they had stood in hunger and thirst for days.

May Die at Any Time.

According to the physicians the pon-tiff may die at any moment, even in the midst of one of those extraordinary intervals when his n ind and body pre-sent a comparatively sound appearance.

All those around the patient have long since ceased to hold definite opinions regarding the duration of the pontiff's existence. The slow but progressive diminution of the strength of the august patient foretells the approaching end of the struggle with death, but the doctors will not venture to predlet how near the end is. Constant relapses, they say such as created alarm early yesterday, are gradient.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The post-office inspectors are investigating charges made against John M. Masten, now assistant superintendent of the railway mail service and forpostmaster general's office. A man named Terry, now in the government service, had made an affidavit before the inspectors alleging that Mastert, while chief clerk to the first assistant postmaster general, proposed that Terry nay him $50 down and $8 or $10 a month to secure reinstatement in a former position in Masten's bureau. Terry urges that he was originally a $500 employe in the dead letter office; that he was removed under an order of Masten and put into the city postoffice; that he protested, and finally that Masten suggested his getting an outside party, a close friend of Masten and a former employe of the postal service, to help him.

Affidavit Suppressed.

The affidavit alleges that Masten mainte gave Terry assurance that if he paid the amount mentioned he could get were a about the matter but did not pay the money.
